

CFLI AFFILIATE MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM

CFLI's Affiliate Membership Program invites individuals interested in increasing the awareness of Collaborative Family Law in South Florida though not eligible for full membership. Affiliate Members can be:

- lawyers that practice in areas outside of family law, such as trust and estates law, criminal law, real estate law, or immigration law;
- professionals that provide services to couples that avail themselves of the Collaborative Process, including bankers, real estate agents, life insurance agents, physicians, investment bankers, or clergy; or
- vendor representatives providing services to the family law community, including court reporters, payroll service providers, or public relations professionals, etc.

What are the benefits of becoming a CFLI Affiliate Member?

Networking with Professionals

Affiliate Members are invited to two networking events each year where they are able to network with experienced family law and other industry professionals open to establishing new professional relationships.

Advertising

Affiliate Members are listed as members on the Affiliate page of CFLI's website and can link their website back to CFLI's website. Each quarter, Affiliate Members may contribute one article for posting to CFLI's Affiliate page.

Affiliate Members are welcome to share their skills and services at the Institute's Affiliate Fair which will be held during one of our annual education programs.

Education on the Collaborative Family Law Process

Affiliate Members must complete a free half-day educational program on Collaborative Family Law within six months of becoming an Affiliate Member in order to maintain the benefits of Affiliate Membership. The program will provide an overview of the Collaborative Family Law Process and offer an opportunity to participate in a question and answer forum about Collaborative Family Law.

Special Discounts for Education or Sponsorship Opportunities

From time to time, CFLI arranges events for educational or other networking purposes. When these events occur, discounts will be offered to Affiliate Members for attending the additional educational or networking events and for sponsorship opportunities, which can include exhibiting, advertising, and speaking, depending on the sponsorship level.
